ONE of the first things the members elect from the new States done was to hold t meeting in Washington last week, and declare themselves in favor of a tax on the farming industries of the country. The farming industries in this country need no protective duties levied upon them. But it is this system of rotbery under the guise of protection that is crushing the farmer, and the thing be wants to be rid of more than all others under the sun. The new members elect should paste this in

They made an effort at Hardinsburg about ten days ago to organize, and put candidates in the field for the various offices, but the organization failed and as for the candidates, they are not bobbing up like they used to. Organization and leadership is what is wanting, and to get either or both they were forced to make a raid on the back districts.

This thing of exempting so many men from paying poll tax is increasing with the Court of Claims. The trouble is that men who are able to pay get these exhonerations. The Court should have sufficient proof before them always when such things are passed upon.

The following persons were exempted from paying poll tax by the Court of Claims last week: Geo. McCarnish, Taylor Robbins, Hardin Robbins, John Clark, Sr., Valentine Butler, Roland Jordan, Wm. The Other Side of the Railroad Matter.

I see an article in your issue of the 20th inst., purporting to be an interview with B. F. Beard, President of the L. H. & W. railroad. I regret very much that he used the expressions therein, as to my mind they are misleading and uncalled for.

The McCrackens who are building this railroad, never violated a contract, as they understood it in their lives, and it is doubt ful whether they ever asked the Directory to change a contract, accepted or made by them, -I don't know. They will do as they agree, always, and under all circumstances They have no "animosity" against the citizens of Hardinsburg and its surroundings as alleged, but on the contrary the most kindly feeling, and will do everything that honorable business men can do, to accommodate the town and those visiting it as it is the most important town upon the road. They don't want to "shove" matters, but draw everything to them and the the towns along the lines of road they build. In the absence of the parties referred to and as their friend, I feel it my duty to

The Cash Store at Bewleyville wishes to say to the boys who run the New York store over there at Hampton, that experience has something to do with the goods business as well as with every other business, and that it is a fact that the Cash store is selling piles of goods at just what you pay, and making a nice profit at the same time.
